Facilitative Workplace Mediation

How It Works: In this format, our expert mediation facilitator creates a safe space for productive conversation between the people/teams involved in the conflict. The mediation facilitator first meets with each person/team involved in the conflict to fully understand their perspective, needs and goals. Following these meetings, the facilitator brings all stakeholders together to define the issue – not rehash the past. Each party has an opportunity to be heard and understood, followed by brainstorming potential solutions as a team. The session concludes with a commitment to the next steps and a plan to move forward agreeable to all parties.

Dispute Resolution for the Workplace

How It Works: This model is most effective for long-standing disputes, where the parties are firmly entrenched in their views or when teams that need to collaborate are in unhelpful conflict. Our expert mediation facilitator will clarify the goals and process and establish ground rules in this format. The mediator provides an initial evaluation and suggested direction for the meeting and will firmly guide the discussion about solutions moving forward. Finally, the facilitator will document the proceedings and provide a report on the outcome of the mediation session.
